Government of Haryana

We (me and Shri Darbar Singh, Photographer) have attended the meeting on 28th December 2017 regarding Protection & Development of Ancient Monuments in district Charkhi Dadri under the chairmanship of Deputy Commissioner, Charkhi Dadri followed by site visit.

Report of Site Visit in Charkhi Dadri Photograph attached (X) –

Charkhi Dadri is a town and headquarters of Charkhi Dadri district in the state of Haryana, about 105 km from Delhi. The town was made by joining the villages of Charkhi and Dadri after urban development. Previously Charkhi Dadri was a small town in Bhiwani district, Charkhi Dadri became part of the new Charkhi Dadri district in 2016. It was found by Raja Bilhan Sing, a Phogat tribal leader son of Mahraja Pritviraj Chauhan.

Folklore claims that the name "Dadri" is derived from a lake called Dadar. According to another anecdote, the place had a lake which was full of dadur (Sanskrit: frog) from which it took its current name. It is said that one day Dada Bilhan Singh, a descendant of Prithviraj Chauhan, came to this area and saw a cow and lion drinking water side by side. Intrigued by the sight, he went to a nearby cottage where a Mahatma named Swami Dayal lived. Bilhan Singh asked for the Mahatma's blessings and advice and was told that if he made the place his home, his family would be blessed and would rule over it in the future. In the past, Dadri was also a district or pargana and a state or riyasat. Post mutiny (1857); this area was granted to the Sikh king of Jind. The last king of this dynasty built a palace at Dadri in the memory of his daughter. Also there is a Shyameswar tank located here, built by the treasurer of Mughals.

During Raj times, Ch. Dadri was a princely state with an area of 575sq miles and revenue of Rs 103000 annually. In 1857 war, the Nawab of Dadri, Bahadur Jung Khan who had given token allegiance to Emperor Bahadur Shah Zafar, surrendered to British and tried by military court martial in Delhi on 27 Nov. 1857. He was removed to Lahore. Dadri was awarded to Raja Saru Singh of Jind for his services to East India Company in the 1857 war. In 1864, some fifty villages revolted against his descendant Raja Raghbir Singh in May 1864 but the rebellion was crushed. Three principal villages which took part in the rebellion, Charkhi, Mankinas and Jhanjhu, were burned down.

The town is composed of slopping streets with residences on both side of the street. t there are many monuments, tanks, havelis, temples, chhatris, fort of interest indicating its former importance among which the following may be noticed

1. Jain Chhatri – It is located near Hanuman Bagichhi. It consists of a simple two storied structure of 9 domes raised by no of pillars. This beautiful chhatri maintained by Jain family, built by lakhouri bricks and the interior of the chhatris is painted depicting the stories from Indian Mythology, flora, fauna, war scene and floral ornamentation. The ceiling painted in floral designs in lively colours and the lower portions of the ceilings and walls having portraits of soldiers in standing pose and horses, social life are the works of the later additions. They are simple in nature. It is in private ownership. It may be dated 18th century AD.

2. Chhatri of Kuldeep Singh - This centuries old chhatri (18th century) is located near Hanuman Bagichhi adjacent to a temple. It consists of a simple two storied structure of single dome raised by 8 pillars. The ceiling painted in floral designs in lively colours but the lower portions of the ceilings and walls having drawings are not of high standard but a great variety of themes is illustrated. It is in private ownership.
3. Abandoned Chhatri of unknown Bania- Located near Chhatri of Kuldeep Singh is another Chhatri of unknown bania. This centuries old chhatri is currently in a deserted condition and a thick vegetation growth has covered the monument.
4. Shyameswar Talab or Tank- A water body called Shyameswar Talab or tank is located in the town with some historic structures around it. A series of steps are situated around the tank along with some temple. Local Administration has made arrangements for supply of canal water to the tank, and is also taking steps to clear it up as a tourist attraction, development and upgradation of the area.

Located near Shyameswar Tank is the Swami Dayal Mandir, which is believed to be the oldest temple in the town, from 1687 built by Sita Ram, an official in the Mughal court. At present it is totally modified by the trustees and it is lost its originality.
5. Old Fort- There was a fort dating around 18th century built by Nawab of Jhajjar. A structure that appears to be the fort is located in DC Office complex and now walls are in complete decay. The old town was said to be surrounded by a stone wall with 4 gates, Raj Darwaja, Delhi Gate, Budwana Gate and Charkhi Gate. The old wall with the gate was built by the Maharaja of erstwhile Jind State in 1860.
6. Haveli- A old haveli has been noticed near Hira Chawk but it has renovated and modified in as per modern requirements except its door.
7. Sardar Jharu Singh's Haveli – It is located at Mohalla Jindwara, Charkhi Dadri. Originally 14 village including this area was granted to Jharu Singh, tribal leader of phogat of Dadri by Maharaja Yashwant Singh, the then king of Ajmer. He built this haveli in 17th century AD. Now the property of the building has been divided between his descendants. At present, only a few parts survive which still have it's own originality such as Darbar room, its courtyard, old doors etc. It had a tunnel which was connect to Shyameswar Talab. Double storied building with darbar hall, inner & outer courtyard. It is now in possession of present descendants of Jharu Singh. Total area is 1.5 to 2 acre.

Government of Haryana

8. The Dorothei Villa/ Jind Raj's Palace- It was built by Maharaja of erstwhile princely state of Jind (now PWD rest House) is a beautiful building. It is based on pillars and its porch has beautiful architectural design. The newly built 19-suit PWD Rest. House bears modern or British design. It is very beautiful building. Over the design and architecture in the present time, Rana, a well known architect and academician being a dean of Sushant School of Art and Architecture laid stress that architects must design in harmony with nature. He observed that it is unfortunate that architects are getting more and more involved with materials and less and less with what they are actually expected to do the building they design. He stressed the need to live in harmony with natural environment. At present it is maintained by PWD B&R.

9. Diwankhana – it is an excellent monument with arched room of 18 pillared hall of brick masonry. Wood was also used in the ceiling. The interior walls have been beautifully decorated but time has disfigured most of this work. The façade, consisting of five cusped arch supported by columns, opens into the courtyard. The pavilion is in the form of a rectangular, and consists of apartments roofed with cupolas and intricately decorated with floral design. The decorative features also include stucco in ornamental designs. The roof of the central hall rises up to two storeys. It was built by Chander Singh, Diwan of the then Nawab of Jhajjar. It is in private possession and the area is 600 gauges.

10. Middle School – At present it's a government office. Nice architecture of Colonial design, with arched corridor made on bricks. It is double storied in the central portion and rest of the building is single storied. Building is well maintained.

It was decided in the meeting that local administration prepares the list of old monuments in the district. Diwankhana and Jain Chhatri are the best among said monuments which have to be taken in state protection. Regarding State protection of said monuments, the department needs encroachment report and revenue record from concerned DC, so that department may send the proposal along with reports for approval of Hon'ble CM.
